

Josh Hogan

Josh is an associate attorney at Wolaver, Carter & Heffington in Columbia, TN. He works for three accomplished partners who have a wide range of experience from commercial transactions to family law. Josh supports the firm's clients in many practice areas, but especially enjoys helping small businesses, entrepreneurs, and nonprofits accomplish their goals.

Josh received his Juris Doctor from Belmont University in 2022 where he was member of the Belmont Law Review. He earned his Bachelors of Science in Business Administration in 2008 from Tennessee Technological University.

Between his undergraduate time at Tennessee Tech and receiving his law degree, Josh served as a commissioned officer in the U.S. Navy. As a logistics officer and member of the Navy's Supply Corps, Josh practiced a variety of disciplines, including supply chain management, physical distribution, expeditionary logistics, inventory control, financial management, and contracting.

Josh's first assignment in the Navy was serving as the Supply Officer aboard USS CHEYENNE (SSN 773), a fast-attack submarine stationed in Pearl Harbor, Hawaii. In 2012, He was selected for duty in the Pacific Fleet Personnel Exchange Program (PEP) where he served as a Contract Support Officer for the Royal Australian Navy's Submarine Force. There he worked in a team that developed and monitored several key performance indicators for multiple performance-based contracts.

After his tour in Australia, Josh spent the next five years working for the Naval Special Warfare Command. There he provided supply chain management expertise to support the training, equipping, and worldwide deployment of U.S. Navy SEAL Teams. During this time, he also deployed to Baghdad, Iraq as the Logistics Operations Officer for the Combined Joint Special Operations Task Force in support of Operation Inherent Resolve. His last deployment was as the Logistics Director for a theater-specific Special Operations Command (SOCOM) mission in Africa.

Today Josh is focused on applying his unique problem-solving experience to the practice of law and helping clients achieve their goals. When he's not practicing law, Josh enjoys spending time with his beautiful wife, Catie and trying to keep up with his young daughter, Evelyn.
